Location: Walnut Hills Campground, Staunton, Virginia

Hosts: Jim & Kathie Kline and Mark & Jan Edwards

The Tidewater Tascas has quite the adventure for our November campout, some of us more than others. Staunton and the surrounding areas experienced a severe ice storm days before our arrival and some icy ride conditions still remained. You can see from the pictures that the trees along Afton Mountain were full of ice and the roads of the campground were not better. Our original sites were located on top of the hill of the campground but after Phil and Mark had quite the adventure getting unstuck on the steep, winding, icy road heading up the hill, the staff moved our sites to somewhere less hilly. If you haven't heard the story, ask Phil next time you see him.

Other than the icy conditions, we still had a wonderful time. The Klines and Edwards put on an amazing taco dinner on Friday night and made arrangements for us to have dinner on Saturday at Edelweiss Restaurant which was located nearby. A few members hit up some wineries on Saturday during the day while others shopped and others went exploring. Saturday night after dinner we played an intense game of Left Right Center – Molly and Ellie participated in their first independent round but sadly lost all of their money to their mommy. Sunday we met for a quick goodbye, enjoyed some yummy donuts and pastries and then hit the road to head home.
